CONCEIVED IN LOVE

Genesis 1:1-31

Psalm 19:1-4

Creation is an expression of God's power and ability to create from nothing, and the vast diversity of the universe we inhabit. Within the creation narrative is a God whose love is embedded in all we see.

1. Is there something in the natural world that instantly makes you stop in wonder and amazement? Why does it affect you in that way?

EXPLORE

Read Genesis 1:1-25; Psalm 19:1-4 (We will look at Gen 1:26-31 next week)

2. What are the two ways the biblical account of creation is unique?
3. List the unique features of Genesis 1 presented in the message.
 - No _____.
 - No _____ battle between _____.
 - World created by divine _____ not divine _____.

- _____ are not _____, but servants.
- Creation is _____, not _____ or _____.
- Humanity isn't created as _____ for the gods.
- Creation is declared _____.

4. Beyond Genesis telling us there is a Creator, what else does it tell us about the creation?

It is _____, _____, _____, & _____.

5. What is the significance of the repeated statement, "God saw it was good," and the emphasis on the goodness of creation? Why is this important to establish before the introduction of humanity?
6. Looking at Psalm 19:1-4, what is the essential message being presented as it pertains to the character and nature of the Creator?
7. Expand on the following statement: Creation is God's first _____, a creation not from _____ but _____.
8. Is there anything additional that you would like to add or discuss?

Respond

1. What would it look like this week to see yourself through the eyes of your creator, not from culture?

Series Summary

In this series, we'll explore how the world around us points beyond itself to the God who made it. From the vastness of the galaxies to the complexity of life itself, creation reveals not only God's power and wisdom but also the depth of His love for us.

Together, we'll discover that the fingerprints of God are everywhere and etched into the beauty of nature, woven into the story of humanity, and ultimately revealed in His desire to know us and be known by us. As we journey through Scripture, we'll see that we are not accidents of chance, but beloved creations, carefully formed by the hands of a loving Creator.

Additional Notes

Next Week – Part 2

Made for Wonder
Gen. 1:26-28, Psalm 8

The complexity and beauty of creation have a way of awakening our sense of wonder. Moreso, the wonder becomes more profound when we realize that humanity serves as creation's crowning achievement.
